

SSD Classification

Following industry-standard practice, Simply NUC classifies SSDs by the total capacity of the Flash Storage Array and not what the vendor might have printed on the label as or what is actually reported by a query. The usable space will vary and be less than the labeled size.